The screenshot shows a web page titled "Registration code". It contains instructions: "Please enter the Registration code. Then click the 'Next' button." Below this, it says "Registration code" and "Registration code is the 6 digits code appeared on the screen when you changed your E-mail address." There is a text input field with a placeholder "example) AA1234". To the right of the input field is a green checkmark icon and a message: "If you fail to pass the Registration code check, please go back to the top page and retry." At the bottom right is a blue button labeled "Next >".

The screenshot shows the NACCS registration code confirmation interface. On the left, a smaller window displays an email verification message with the code 'IS6242' highlighted in a yellow box. A red arrow points from this box to the main screen's input field. The main screen has a header 'Registration code' and instructions: 'Please enter the Registration code. Then click the "Next" button.' Below this, another 'Registration code' section explains that the code is a 6-digit code from a previous email change. A red box labeled '[1]' highlights the input field, which contains the example code 'AA1234'. Below the input field, a red box labeled '[2]' highlights the 'Next >' button. A green checkmark icon and a message box on the right state: 'If you fail to pass the Registration code check, please go back to the top page and retry.'
